TO HIS MISTAKE*ARCTIC EXPLORER SAYS HE MAY NOT HAVE FOUND POLE.*ASKS PUBLIC TO JUDGE*Believes His Two Years' Experience in the Regions of Cold Had Unbalanced His Mind.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Dr. Frederick Cook, the Brooklyn explorer in the arctic regions, in an article which is published in Hampton's magazine, confesses he does not know whether he reached the North Pole or not.

Dr. Cook, who has been in hiding over a year, has informed the editors of the magazine he will return to the United States to spend Christmas here.

Dr. Cook says that his confession, he does not know whether he reached the North Pole or not, is made "after mature thought." He declares that much as the Pole once meant to him the sympathy and confidence of his fellow men meant more.

He states his case plainly and in detail and is willing to leave all to the judgment of the public whether or not he is honest in his claim.

Dr. Cook declares that at the time he had convinced himself he had discovered the Pole he was half mad. He had spent two years in quest of it and during that time, endured such hunger and privation that, he said, would unbalance any mind.

The explorer states it would be impossible for any man to demonstrate beyond any question that he had been to the North Pole.

He characterizes the region of the Pole as a region of insanity, where one cannot believe the evidence gathered by one's own eyes.

He says he had always looked upon the discovery of the Pole as an achievement for his own personal satisfaction or a craving and desire that was greater than any other factor in his life.

Peary Satisfied.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—When shown the United Press dispatches today announcing Dr. Cook's confession, Commander Robert E. Peary, received every line eagerly. He, however, refused to make a statement.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 30.—Nineteen are dead and seven have been seriously injured as the result of the 1910 deer-hunting season in the northern woods of Wisconsin which comes to a close tonight, according to figures here today. It is believed the number would amount even greater were every accident recorded. No attempt has been made to record minor injuries. According to State Game Warden, Hickey, the number of accidents is less than last year, owing to the fact that hunters generally adopted the suggestion of wearing red caps and colored clothing which would make it possible to distinguish them as hunters instead of game.

HEAD OF MARINE CORPS RETIRED*Official Life of the Gallant Major
General George F. Elliott Expired Today.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—The official life of a gallant warrior expired today, when, by reason of the fact that he had reached his sixty-fourth birthday anniversary, Maj. Gen. George F. Elliott, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, was retired from active service. The retirement of Gen. Elliott is understood to be the prelude to a complete reorganization of the Marine Corps, according to plans which have been under consideration for some time by Secretary of the Navy Meyer. Until these plans are thoroughly worked out and the necessary sanction of Congress obtained, it is probable that the corps will be placed in charge of an active command.

It is a gallant and highly creditable record that Gen. Elliott leaves upon the pages of the oldest branch of the fighting service of the country, of which he has been in command for more than seven years. A native of Alabama, he was appointed a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps from New York in 1870. After serving on various ships and at the navy yards in Portsmouth, Brooklyn and Norfolk, he reached the grade of first lieutenant in 1885. He was with the battalion of engineers which rendered such efficient service on the isthmus of Panama, which the American naval forces commanded by Rear Admiral Jonett were landed there for the protection of American interests.

At the outbreak of the war with Spain Gen. (then Colonel) Elliott was assigned to duty with the marine battalion of the North Atlantic squadron and served with special distinction in the engagements at Guantanamo, Cuba. In 1899 he was sent to the Philippines in command of the Second Battalion of Marines and he served with conspicuous gallantry in the engagement at Manila. In October of that year, for his behavior on that occasion he was specially recommended for promotion by Major General Otis, commanding the United States forces in the Philippines.

Colonel Elliott was broken down by his services in the Philippines and was sent to the Naval hospital at Mare Island in March, 1900. When his health had been restored he was placed in command of the marine barracks at Norfolk, being subsequently transferred to the marine barracks in Washington. He succeeded to the command of the Marine Corps in 1905 and was appointed a major general in 1908.

STATE TREASURER*Makes Many Suggestions As to Changes That Might Be Made
By Legislature.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 30.—That the state of Wisconsin might profitably inaugurate the "competitive bid" system in fixing bank depositories for state funds is the leading suggestion in the annual report of State Treasurer, Andrew H. Dahl, made public today. Mr. Dahl does not make this in the form of a recommendation, but he cites the experience of the state of Ohio, which increased its interest by nearly $20,000 a year by this method, and he also adds that "money is worth more in some sections of the state than in others, and the attention of the legislature should be called to this matter in order that some change may be made in our laws which will provide a remedy." He declares that there are more requests for deposit funds than the board awarding them is able to handle, owing to the fact that the local rates of interest required, 2 1/2 per cent, is so low.

Taxation of telephone companies on the ad valorem basis, instead of on their gross earnings which was recommended in the report for 1909, is reiterated by Mr. Dahl. He declares that the American Telephone & Telegraph company has "benefitted by this extremely unfair method of taxation by approximately $70,000 in the last eleven years." "It would seem that if this example and the results obtained in increased revenue through the ad valorem system from railroads, street and telegraph companies is sufficient proof of the advisability and fairness in extending this system to all companies in the state," says the report. "The administration of such a law should, of course, be vested in the tax commission." Mr. Dahl's figures show that 58 telephone companies escaped taxation last year, the value of whose property is $70,000, and whose taxes under the ad valorem system would amount to $8,900. There also are 45 other companies paying 1 cent to 9 cent in taxes each on a total property value of $85,000. They therefore pay a total tax now of $19, instead of $9,000 which they would have to pay under the recommended plan.

Mr. Dahl also reiterates his recent statement, made in an interview, that the law regulating the sale of state lands should be so changed as to allow purchases to be made on the part payment plan. "If the state lands suitable for agriculture were to actual settlers on the basis of a small cash payment (15 per cent of the value), long time payment on the balance (15 or 20 years), and a low rate of interest, it is my opinion that many landseekers looking for cheap lands would locate in Wisconsin; while now, when the state demands 'all spot cash' they emigrate to the western states and Canada to seek homes. The sale of state lands also should be limited to a reasonable amount to be sold to each individual, and in case the land is timbered, the state should restrict the cutting of timber to conform to the laws governing hunted estates. There is no provision made for the sale of timber from state lands. The commissioners of public lands should be authorized to sell the timber from state lands visited by forest fires when deemed advisable, in order to protect the property from total loss, when sales of such timber lands can not be effected in time to utilize the burned timber to the best advantage.

The report recommends the amendment of the law relating to the payment of money due the state from the grain and warehouse commission, to provide for payment on December 31, instead of in July, and requiring an itemized and detailed statement of receipts and expenditures to be filed with the state treasurer. Profiting by the discovery that there is no law under which trust companies may be resolved, which in the case of a refund, company in the northern part of the state at one time caused some embarrassment Mr. Dahl urges the passage of a law allowing the dissolution of such companies. On account of the passage of a law by the last legislature, making it the duty of the state treasurer to collect inheritance taxes the report recommends that authority be granted to employ another clerk in the treasurer's department to care for this work. Discontinuance of a large number of special funds is recommended, in most cases because there is no provision for maintaining them. This will result in the transfer of quite a tidy sum into the general fund of the state. A recapitulation of expenses shows that aside from salaries, it cost $12,128.62 to run the treasurer's office during the ten months of 1910, as compared with $1,148.72 in 1909.

OPPOSE HIRING OF TAX FERRETS

COMMERCIAL CLUB OF JANESVILLE DECLARES ITSELF UNANIMOUSLY.

SUBJECT WAS DISCUSSED

From Both Sides Of Taxation and Assessment Question At First Meeting Of Season Last Night.

Tax ferrets and their methods were discussed at the meeting of the Commercial Club in the Hotel Myers last evening, and after both sides of the question had been propounded, President Parker, called for a vote, the club expressing itself unanimously as opposed to the employment of tax ferrets.

Thirty members of the club were seated at the tables when the dinner was served at 7:15. President Parker presided over the session, and after the banquet the discussion of the topic of the evening was taken up.

County Supervisor of Assessments Frank P. Starr outlined in detail the method of assessing property in Rock county and the manner of fixing the values for real and personal property. "The question at law," said he, "is that taxes shall be levied on all property not exempt from taxation." The basis for assessing taxes in Rock county he explained was at $50 per capita, other methods, such as the two per cent method proving unsatisfactory.

Intangible Property.
He went on to show that a great deal of personal property, which was intangible, was not taxed as much as it should be, using the city of Janesville as an example and giving the figures of the last tax assessment. The result of this was, he said, that real estate and tangible property were taxed heavier to meet the $50 per capita assessment. The question is, said Mr. Starr, "why did we not get it. The reason is that the usual questions asked by the assessor and the personal property statements are answered in some evasive way. It seems that assessments under that method become less instead of more."

Taking up the question of tax ferrets, Mr. Starr took exception to the statement in the Mayor's veto of the ordinance to hire tax experts in that the state and county were involved, stating that if one half the value of the property values of Rock county were omitted, as would be shown by the findings of the tax ferret, the state would not have levied any more than it did. The state and county, he said, would receive one cent of the omitted taxes collected, as the equalization is fixed by the state about nine millions more than this valuation of taxable property and would not be changed. Taxes, he stated, could be collected for three years past, and the tax experts receiving one third of the back taxes collected, with the present year's tax they would do the work for one fourth of the amount received by the city.

Public Policy.
"Some have said," remarked Mr. Starr, "that it is against public policy to hunt up the omitted taxes. If so, to make every man pay his equal share of the taxes is against public policy." He stated that the manufacturing and tobacco interests were always favored in the assessment because favoring them added to the value of property in the surrounding country where the factories or warehouses were located.

Favors Income Tax.
This subject of taxation, "was the supervisor's statement, "is being generally discussed. Compared with the systems of Europe our own system is crude, but I believe the American people will settle the question ultimately. I believe the only practical method of collecting taxes is an income tax. An equal, fair income tax, well enforced, is to the best tax for the city, county, state or nation."

Mayor Carlo Talks.
Mayor Carlo spoke against the hiring of the tax ferrets. He denounced the methods used by the firm who were to do the tax ferretting in bringing two aldermen from Waukesha here to secure a contract to do the work here; said that they made a misstatement of facts when they (the tax ferrets) said they had secured a contract with that city, when they were turned down first there, and probably would be in Milwaukee where they were also supposed to have secured the work. He stated that he could see no good in it from beginning to end, and that when first approached with regard to the proposition, their glowing description of the benefits to accrue from it had caused him to wonder why, if the business were so good for the cities why the company had left Indiana?

Contract Ever Stops.
"Mr. Starr alluded to the contract," said the Mayor, "and told what would be paid to these men, but I defy any lawyer to tell me what you are to pay. The contract," in part reads: "In consideration of the services rendered, the party of the second part shall receive one third of the taxes collected." Can you tell me when that stops?"

Expert Opinion.
A portion of the opinion of former City Attorney of Milwaukee, John Kelly with regard to hiring tax experts in which it was stated that an ordinance hiring them would not be in legal force and that the assessors were empowered to make investigations to find the true value and amount of property to be assessed. The principal he said was propounded in Illinois and the supreme court of Ohio had held that an ordinance to hire such men was in conflict with the state constitution, which provided ample powers for the collection of taxes to the assessors.

This Experience.
He made the statement that he had been approached by many people, people in whom he placed confidence and their general request was: "Keep the tax ferrets out of the city." "Not one of them that I know of," said the mayor, "has any property outside the city."

General Discussion.
A general discussion followed, Attorney M. O. Mount expressing the opinion that if the omitted taxes were reported the state would raise its equalization of taxes on the county. Supervisor Starr stated that in his opinion there would be no chance on that account, as the state board of equalization fixed the values from the figures secured in much the same way as the county got its figures, and did not base its valuation on his figures entirely. There was considerable cross-fire on the question, Mr. Starr, the mayor, Judge C. L. Pifford, St. L. Carle, Geo. G. Sutherland, Attorney Mount and T. O. Howe taking part. As an additional speaker Mr. Parker called on Attorney George G. Sutherland, who spoke clearly, concisely and to the point. He described briefly the present system of collecting taxes in the state, as inaugurated in 1907. He said that one of the state tax commissioners, who had worked under the present system, made the statement that, notwithstanding all the machinery for the assessment and collection of taxes, it was more unequal and unjust than ever before. "The assessor does not pretend to assess at the real value, but at eighty per cent of the real value," declared Mr. Sutherland.

Their Business.
"It is the business of the assessor to get the real value and the duty of the state tax commission to see that the real value is given. If the valuation is fixed arbitrarily, they have no ground to stand on in case of a refusal to pay the tax as the state court would set it aside because it was not assessed at its real value. The statutes provide ample modes of rectifying the tax and if you cannot get all that way, a reassessment can be made. If the method of collecting taxes were adopted by hiring tax experts, with that kind of non-conducting the investigations, the widows, orphans and others in poor circumstances would be pushed to the wall. I do not think anyone approves of the methods they assumed here."

What It Means.
"If Janesville got the reputation of being a place where they used a tax-ferretting system to collect taxes, no money would come into the city and a good deal of it now would go out. The factories are continually borrowing money to carry on their business and that money is put into produce, so that the city does not lose by that. You know Janesville is assessed high enough and taxed high enough. Our assessment is two million dollars higher than that of Beloit, in the last assessment."

Needed in Beloit.
Beloit, according to the last census is larger than Janesville. Now if the tax experts are needed, why are they not needed more in Beloit to bring their assessment up nearer to that of Janesville. The fact is that Rock county stands third in the state as to the amount of taxes. The only basis on which taxes can be levied is on the actual value of property."

Those Present.
A short discussion followed Mr. Sutherland's talk. Members and guests present at the gathering last evening, which was the first of the season were: George S. Parker, Geo. F. Kimball, R. E. Wagner, Frank P. Starr, H. M. Weber, Sen. John M. Whitehead, Sanford Savarilli, Judge C. L. Pifford, John Gollner, Val J. Weber, R. M. Houtwick, Jr., A. P. Burnham, George G. Sutherland, T. O. THE LIMIT OF CAUTIONSNESS Liveryman Demands Proof of Honesty from Man Who Would Rescue Fire-Trapped Horses.

The man who refused to be saved from drowning because he had never been introduced to his would-be rescuer was an incorrigible bohemian compared with the liveryman the commercial traveler met on his last trip west.

One night the livery stable caught fire. The stable was old, the fire had made considerable headway before the alarm was turned in, and it seemed inevitable that most of the horses must perish. To the liveryman who stood in the street cursing and wringing his hands an athletic stranger rushed up and said:

"Tell me in what part of the building your best horses are stabled and I will save some of them."

The liveryman ceased lamenting and eyed the stranger suspiciously. "Sir," said he, "can you produce proof that you are square in your horse deals?"

"Square hell," said the stranger and dashed into the stable. With the assistance of a fireman he saved five horses, but not until they were safely stabled elsewhere did the liveryman cease to suspect the stranger of horse-stealing.

ATHLETIC CONTESTS HELD AT Y. M. C. A.

First of Series of Monthly Athletic Contests Have Been Held This Week.

Athletes at the Y. M. C. A. have been engaged in the first of a series of monthly athletic contests which are to be held through the winter. On Monday evening the teams in the Senior class ran off their events and a number of high scores were established. The team captained by F. Rydler carried off the laurels by a good margin, a portion of their success being due to the fact that a larger number of that team were present. H. Campbell's team was second, and G. Shuler's third. The highest individual score was made by Shuler, 280 points; H. Campbell, second, with 272; and G. Moore, third, with 263. The events and three best records made are as follows: Standing broad jump, A. Heubel, 8 ft. 4 in.; F. Rydler, 8 ft. 3 1/2 in.; H. Campbell, 8 ft. 2 in. Running high jump, E. Muenchow, 5 ft. 5 1/2 in.; H. Sallor, 4 ft. 2 1/2 in. Snap under, F. Rydler, 6 ft. 8 in.; M. Klesler, 6 ft. 4 in.; G. Moore, 6 ft. 1 in. Pull up (chin), F. Rydler, 15 times; H. Campbell, 13; M. Klesler, 12. Three lap potato race, F. Shuler, G. Otto, 17:45 sec.; E. Muenchow, 18 sec. The ten best all-around athletes for these events are shown by the scores: Shuler, 280; Campbell, 272; Moore, 263; Rydler, 257; Otto, 256; Heubel, 241; Muenchow, 240; Klesler, 235; Sallor, 234; Jacko, 218.

The intermediate contest was held last evening, resulting in first place for R. Falter's team, second for R. Cannon's, and third for V. Stott's. The highest individual score was made by A. Burdick, third, with 100 points, and A. Burdick third, better records were made in this class than in the Senior class. The three best records made in each event were as follows: Standing broad jump, R. Falter, 8 ft. 5 in.; A. Burdick, 8 ft. 4 1/2 in.; J. Brown, 8 ft. 2 in. Snap under, D. Stewart, 6 ft. 7 in.; Burdick 6 ft. 1 in.; F. Sagar, 6 ft. 10 in. Running high jump, W. Homming, 4 ft. 11 in.; J. Young, 4 ft. 1 in.; Burdick, 4 ft. 6 in. Pull up (chin), Stewart, 17 times; A. Good Manners a Requisite.
A brilliant mind, the possession of unusual talents and worldly success are all to be desired, but nothing will compensate for a lack of good manners, while the possession of good manners will frequently make amends for a certain lack of book knowledge, talent and world success.

Black Paper Protector.
Wrap gold or silver trimmings in black paper and you will find that they will remain unharmed through many seasons. All frocks should be wrapped in black paper also. A good quality of tissue paper should be used, and if this is not practicable, use a heavier grade.

Rapid Turnout of Watches.

It is claimed that the methods of manufacture adopted by one American company enable it to set up, ready for trial within an hour, no fewer than nine watches. This rapidity of manufacture has become possible by reason of the ingenious machinery invented for the making of all the parts of a watch.

The speed with which the various parts are turned out is truly remarkable. Great sheets of brass and steel are cut and rolled into ribbons, and punched out into wheels at the rate of 10,000 a day from each punching machine. Workers drill the 31 holes in the roof of the watch as fast as they can count, other operative counter-sinking the holes almost as quickly.

Brass wire glides into a machine that measures off the length of a part, turns it, puts a screw thread on each end, and actually screws it in at the rate of 2,000 a day.

The screws are so small that it is said 50 gross of them can be put in a thimble, while of others there are 1,000 gross to a pound.

Balance are cut from solid steel, ground down, worked up, and drilled with their 25 screw holes apiece at the rate of 100 wheels a day from each machine.

Wheels have their teeth cut, a sample dozen at a time, some with from 40 to 80 teeth, at the rate of 1,200 wheels a day from each machine.

Not Room Enough.

While riding on an electric car, during his first visit to the city, a farmer passed the yard of a monument company, where gravestones and monuments were displayed. Turning to his host, he remarked in an awestricken voice: "They don't bury 'em close in the city, don't they?"—Lippincott's.

The Blue Mediterranean.

The extraordinary blueness of the Mediterranean has two causes. One is that very few large rivers of fresh water empty into this sea; the second that the Mediterranean is practically landlocked and being exposed to a powerful sun evaporation is great. By actual test the waters of the Mediterranean are heavier and more salt than those of the Atlantic.

Don't Buy Land at $100 Per Acre in Rock County When You Can Buy Better Land at $32 to $40 Per Acre in Minnesota

There is no misrepresentation here. Every statement will be substantiated by a visit to this land. Call and talk it over. I will tell you all about the land as I have just returned from a trip of personal inspection. If you will take this trip and you do not find the land exactly as I represent it, your railroad fare both ways will be refunded.

This land is in Polk County, Minnesota, in the Red River Valley, one of the richest sections in the Northwest. The soil is virgin and is better soil than Rock county soil. All the improvements, such as rural routes, schools, roads and other buildings, are in. The houses, barns and other buildings are as good as Rock County buildings. There is an abundant rainfall, so much so that the state and county have put in a complete drainage ditch system. Some of the best Rock county farmers who have visited this land have already purchased land here. We will give you reference.

FRANK L. STEVENS, Janesville Wis.

ADDRESSED DOCTORS ON DREAD DISEASE

Dr. Billings of Chicago Spoke to the Rock County Medical Society
On Infantile Paralysis.

Rock County doctors and nurses to the number of nearly one hundred and fifty were present at the clinic presided over by Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago at the audience room of the city hall last evening. Infantile paralysis or poliomyelitis, as it is sometimes called, was the subject of the address and as Dr. Billings has spent some time studying this dread malady he spoke with as much authority as is possible considering how little is known about the disease at the present time. Janesville and Rock county have not and are not in danger of an epidemic of this disease, as comparatively few cases have been reported but as this is a question which is receiving much attention in medical circles at present physicians everywhere are anxious to learn the very latest opinions which have been advanced.

In his address last evening Dr. Billings admitted that medical science is baffled regarding the cause, spread and prevention of infantile paralysis. It is commonly supposed that the disease is caused by germs, but so far all efforts to find these ultra-microscopic organisms have been futile. The work which is being carried on at the Rockefeller Institute has been spoken of where monkeys have been used for experimentation and it has been found that these animals could contract the disease and suffer in practically the same way as human patients. It was also proven that they could transmit the affliction to their offspring through fourteen generations, thus proving that the disease is infectious.

It was stated that not only children but adults were susceptible to the disease, a fact which was demonstrated by the presence of a man from Hollet who had both legs paralyzed. In its common form the malady affects the interior or gray matter of the spinal cord but is not necessarily confined to this portion, as, often times, the outer membrane and the entire cord becomes affected extending into the brain and causing are found in which the brain alone is diseased.

That the disease is contagious is proved by the epidemics which occur all over the country. On an average of fourteen days is required for incubation and in its incubation form it kills in twenty-four to fifty per cent of the cases result fatally, are given by various authorities and the majority of those who recover are crippled for life.

Dr. Billings gave a detailed account of the symptoms attending the disease. The patient generally becomes apathetic and suffers from head ache and sore muscles. Temperature often rises to 100 degrees or over followed by nausea and distaste for food. There has been no means of prevention for the malady discovered up to the present time and there is very little that doctors can do for the sufferers. Quarantine is invariably practiced to prevent the spread of the disease but there is no drug or serum known which will successfully relieve the patient or check the malady in any way.

SALE OF STAMPS TO AID IN GREAT WORK

Miss Louise Merrill is Handling the Sale in the City of Janesville.

The sale of the Christmas stamps, the proceeds from which are to go to the great work of the Anti-Tuberculosis society of the city, will be handled in Janesville this year by Miss Louise Merrill. The crusade is one which every man, woman and child in the city should take an active interest in. It is planned now not only to place the stamps on sale in the stores about the city, but also to have one Stamp Sale day, with booths provided over by young ladies who the stamps can be bought by those planning to send Christmas packages. Delay in receiving the stamps from the Milwaukee office has hindered the work at present but it is expected that it will be adjusted and in full swing by Thursday.

here Friday night, when a much closer game is expected.

Got Nothing From Legacy.

The deacons of a Baptist chapel in Cheltenham, England, got a shock when they heard the contents of the will of one of the chapel trustees, who died in December, 1908. By a codicil he left a hundred pounds to the chapel for each deacon who attended his funeral. There were nine deacons, but not one of them attended; so instead of the £900 by which the chapel might have been richer, the legacy was void.

MISS HELEN TAFT WILL MAKE DEBUT

Popular Daughter of the President is Eighteen, Pretty, and Free from All Afflictions.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—Tomorrow will be a great day in the life of Miss Helen Taft. Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Taft will give a large tea at the White House, when her daughter will be presented to society. While Miss Taft needs no formal introduction to the majority of her parent's friends, official or personal, the function tomorrow afternoon will mark her first formal appearance in any large company.

Miss Taft, at 18, will be the most notable debutante of the Washington season, and the youngest White House society girl ever known, with the exception of Miss Ethel Roosevelt, who was formally presented to society when she was seventeen.

Miss Taft is a splendid type of the American girl. She is extremely pretty, with great masses of brown hair and large blue eyes, clean-cut features with a slightly up-turned nose and up-turned mouth. She is free from affliction—a perfectly natural girl. Last season she appeared occasionally at informal functions, but was never present at state functions until the dinner given by the president to a group of young men and women shortly before the Taft party left for Europe last summer. Mrs. Taft was unable to preside as hostess, and so the daughter of the house filled the role with grace and ease.

While she does not go in for athletics to an extent as "the Roosevelt girl" Miss Taft is fond of outdoor sports. Tennis is her favorite game. She also indulges in golf, and is an accomplished horsewoman. Her education has been thorough. In addition to having completed her sophomore year at Bryn Mawr in June with high honors, the president's young daughter has enjoyed exceptional advantages of travel in Europe and other parts of the world. In fact, it is to be doubted if there is another young woman of her age in the entire country who has traveled more extensively over the world. She became thoroughly acquainted with the Philippine islands during her father's residence in the islands and accompanied him on one of his globe-trotting tours, visiting Japan, China, Egypt and various parts of Europe. Her travels over the United States have also been unusually extensive.

Miss Taft is an unaffected, unassuming girl, who has all the enthusiasm of an uneducated school girl, and does not mind showing it. As a consequence she is very popular—no one was ever better liked in the younger set of Washington society. Among her intimate friends are the brightest among the younger members of the capital's hostess, including the Countess Louise d'Arenberg von Bernstorff, daughter of the German ambassador; Jessie Krogstad, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Krogstad, identified with the distinguished families in the early social history of Washington; and Miss Eudora Clover, daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Richardson Clover.

Fortunately.
There is a lot of virtue that is just from force of habit.—New York Press.

WAS BADLY INJURED IN FALL FROM BRIDGE

Workman on Railroad Bridge Fell Receiving Gashes on Head and An Injured Hip.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Monroe, Nov. 29.—A. Carpenter, a workman on the Milwaukee road, fell from a bridge located between here and Brewster, yesterday afternoon while making repairs and sustained severe injuries. In falling he struck heavily on a cement foundation fifteen feet underneath the bridge and received two gashes in his head, requiring several stitches and other severe injuries to one hip and limb were sustained. He is now in the Leofeborough hospital.

Society Organized.
A new organization has been perfected in this city which will be known as the "Catholic Girl's Society." The membership includes forty young ladies and the object of the society is for social amusement. Meetings will be held in K. of C. hall on Monday evening, every two weeks. The president of the society is Miss Jennie Guldin; vice president, Miss Helen Sullivan; secretary and treasurer, Miss Kittle Ryan.

Stamps Received.
Dr. L. A. Moore is in receipt of 20,000 anti-tuberculosis stamps which will be used in the Monroe campaign. The doctor will arrange for their disposal and it is expected a much larger number will be sold this year than last, as the stamps were first introduced here last year. The Women's club of Monroe took charge of stamps last year and will probably take charge of it again.

MEN UNFIT TO WED

So Declares Memphis Beauty Who Divorced Philadelphian.

Mrs. Keith Donaldson Compares Northern Men With Those from South, Especially Texans—Forebears Inferior.

New York.—Mrs. Keith Donaldson, at the ripe age of twenty-four years, will never, no, never, marry again. She says so herself. The ideal man does not exist, she declares, and until he is produced she will devote herself to the care of her child, the accommodating courts of Reno having relieved her of her husband, a former Philadelphian.

Two years of married life have taught her the wisdom of the ages, and no man need apply, unless—yes, there's a string to the declaration. There is a chance for a Texan. "For," says the lovely divorcee, "my fortune came from the great and glorious state of Texas, and if the same state can produce a man handsome, strong, chivalrous and steady, I may be prevailed upon to change my mind."

Mrs. Donaldson was Miss Evelyn Willis Hunter of Memphis, Tenn. A great beauty, she was much sought after in every city, but the dazzling Philadelphian carried off the "million dollar bride," and the wedding took place in New York, April 25, 1906. The couple went to live at the St. Regis.

Differences arose between the young pair, and a separation followed. Then came the divorce, and Mrs. Donaldson went abroad. She has just returned, with her views of men unaltered, and, if anything, more truly rooted in her mind.

It was rumored that she was engaged to Robert Dula, but this she denied emphatically. "Why," she declared, "he is only nineteen, just a nice boy and the brother of my friend, Mrs. Townsend Horner. I shall never marry again."

"I returned from abroad the other day, where I met several men, but none approached my ideal of what a husband should be."

"When abroad I studied the continental gentleman and found him away back in the field when it comes to racing with southerners—and especially Texans. He does equal northern men, though, I must admit, but the northern men, either easterners or westerners, are not fitted to be husbands. I think every northern father should send his son south for a finishing education in gallantry. He will learn much that will make him fitted to compete with the hundreds of foreigners who come here to New York and break into the families of the rich."

Being in the rubber belt the southern islands of the Philippines should be excellent for the industry, and it is predicted that some day great and prosperous rubber estates will be established upon them.

Are You Looking For Trouble?

If so, you can find it in abundance in a cheap player-piano.

You will find that a player-piano must be better and stronger in every part than the ordinary playerless kind or it will not stand up under the terrific strain of the ten-fold greater use which comes to the inner-player.

Come in and see the splendid Chase & Baker and get my exchange proposition if you have an old piano that is standing idle and a useless expense.

Gary, Ind., Nov. 29.—Fire in a building of the Aetna Powder company's dynamite and nitroglycerin mill near here destroyed 2,000 pounds of nitroglycerin and for a time threatened the entire town of Aetna. In the face of possible death, practically every man in Aetna responded when the alarm of fire was turned in and confined the flames to the one building.

Amount of Rainfall.
Recent authorities assure us that if all the rain which falls upon the earth were allowed to accumulate in a basin of the same area of the terrestrial surface, it would almost be a collection of eight feet deep at the end of the year. The heaviest rainfall known upon the earth occurs upon the mountain slopes beyond the head of the Bay of Bengal and amounts upon the average to 610 inches, or nearly 51 feet, in the course of the year. One inch of rain implies a fall of 101 tons of water upon each acre of ground.

THE PARCELS POST.

The much discussed parcels post is favored by President Taft, and Secretary Hitchcock will ask congress to experiment with it by installing the service in a limited territory. The plan contemplates the carrying by mail, packages weighing up to eleven pounds, and making rural mail carriers distributors, on rural routes.

The express companies which now monopolize this business to large extent, and which are severely criticized for extortionate rates, very naturally oppose this innovation, and because of this opposition, public sentiment is aroused.

If this was the only consideration, the scheme would not merit much attention, but the merchants in the towns and inland cities, all over the country, are united in declaring that when the government enters the field of the common carrier that untold injury will result.

The struggle for existence today on the part of many of these men, because of small order competition, is the problem which confronts them, with no solution in sight. The parcels post puts another club in the hands of these outside competitors and wounds the death knell to the small trader, and means stagnation and loss to the town where he operates.

In one of the small cities in the northern part of the state, a big department store is doing a business of a million dollars a year, but twenty merchants who formerly contributed to the life and prosperity of the town, have retired from the field.

The government is very busy these days in prosecuting monopolies, and much sympathy is expressed for the under dog in the fight, who has been driven to the wall by the Standard Oil company, the sugar combine and various other "special interests."

It is an accepted truism that "consistency is a jewel," and it is difficult to understand how an over-righteous government can lead itself to aid in encouraging a monopoly which already assumes the proportions of an octopus.

While it is true that there is no sentiment in business and the survival of the fittest is the only law which governs, it is also true that the towns and villages and smaller cities are a necessity which the government can ill-afford to overlook.

The man who shouts himself hoarse in denouncing monopolies, is usually the man who adopts a mail order catalogue as his bible and swears by the creed. The parcels post puts him on the back and says, "You are right, my brother, and when the scheme is in full swing the mail order house will be able to send you a basket to bury your dead and a preacher to officiate at the obsequies. In the good days coming you can trade your eggs and butter for sugar, at the corner grocery, and we'll help you buy your goods in the open market." Fine scheme, don't you think?

In the death of Judge E. W. Koyes of Madison, the state has lost another conservative member of the "Old Guard," so rapidly disappearing. Judge Koyes was one of the pioneers, who was present, when the state was born. An old time republican, and over ready to defend the faith that was in him, he has long been a prominent factor in the councils of his party. Loyalty was his watchword, and his friends always knew where to find him. He was a genial, companionable man, endowed with both heart and brain, and the impress of his life is a blessing to the commonwealth.

A MODEL IN POLITENESS.

Here's the way they reject manuscripts in China, according to the London Chronicle:

"Struggling authors in China find it almost as pleasant to have a manuscript rejected as to have it accepted. According to the 'Journal des Debates' the editor of one of the leading periodicals of Peking, when compelled to return a contribution, writes: 'We have read thy manuscript with infinite delight. By the sacred ashes of our ancestors, we swear that never before have we revelled in so entrancing a masterpiece. If we printed it, his Majesty the Emperor, our high and mighty master, would ordain us to take it as a model and never henceforth to print anything inferior to it. As it would be impossible to find its equal within ten thousand years, we are compelled though shaken by sorrow at our action, to return thy divine manuscript, and for doing so we ask thee a thousand pardons.'

Governor Campbell of Texas is besieged with letters from girls in Pennsylvania who want a cowboy for a husband, and while not running a matrimonial bureau, is doing the best he can to help them out. Here is a sample:

"Miss Elizabeth Smith and Miss Madeline Myers, Philadelphia, write a joint letter as follows: 'We have heard so much about your cowboys that we thought that we would write as we would like to hear from some of them. We are girls from Philadelphia, and we do not care for the fellows here, as they are too fast. We are girls that work every day and would like to hear from good, honest fellows.'

The sentiment expressed by the Commercial club at their banquet last evening, concerning tax 'ferretting, is popular sentiment, and should have some influence with the aldermen who favor the scheme.

Deep waterways is another "pork barrel" rat hole. Every navigable stream in the land is monopolized by railroads which monopolize shipping, and always will. Water navigation is too slow for this progressive age.

The ship subsidy bill seems to be a hobby with President Taft. The West has never favored the scheme and does not today.

The city of Watman is likely to be the second city in the state to adopt the commission plan of government.

Uncle Walt
THE POET PHILOSOPHER
By WALT MASON.
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

The last fly of summer, which ought to be dead, is fussing and fooling around on my head.

THE LAST FLY. "Somehow he escaped from the doom that befell the hosts of his kindred; he's chipper and well; he drills and he bores at my scalp with a vim, and heeds not the language I'm throwing at him. Through all the long trail of bad language and tears, I have been with us, an object of scorn; serene and unchanging, he's buzzed through the years, and left a long trail of bad language and tears. He tormented the Pharaohs with tickle some toes, and lit for a moment on Abraham's nose. The great men of Israel, the heroes of time, all cursed the fool fly and his funny antics; they wanted and trapped him, and chased him away—the slay of the fly this is with me today. Men change by their customs, appear and disappear; the things of this world are all given to change, today's things tomorrow, tomorrow as they are; but flies never change—they're just the same; they're just the same now as they were at the dawn; they're tickle and torment with pestilent toes, they plow up your scalp and they fool with your nose. The last fly of summer no sympathy gains; I chase and overwhelm him and knock out his brains.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE ENCHANTED HOPE.

To begin at the beginning—

He was a brisk young clerk in a country store, and he attended strictly to business.

The proprietor did not attend to business, being too busy drinking whisky.

One day the latter fell off a train and was killed, and the young man bought the business.

He prospered.

After awhile he moved to a little city where in a few years he owned a good sized department store.

Enter the promoter, who is selling stock in a gold mine.

Now, the young man was a good merchant, but a poor miner. Nevertheless—

He looked at photographs of the plant, examined the specimens of ore the promoter took out of his travelling bag—and bought.

When the first reports began to come in they were very encouraging.

"When we get through the porphyry," ran the telegram, "we shall have tons of ore," and—

"Please send two thousand."

Somehow, it took a lot of money to keep the air compressor going, and to improve the road to the mine, and to get up wood for the schute, and to fix the boarding house, but always there was the enchanted hope of tremendous riches, and—

"Just a few feet to ore."

He had already advanced considerable, borrowed from the bank, but he must protect his investments.

And the long and short of it was he went broke.

The man did not satisfy himself of the prospect nor employ a mining expert to make investigation. He simply took the promoter's word and held the enchanted hope.

Meantime—

The promoter has another victim who knows considerable about everything but mining, and the telegrams still come from the mountains:

"Ore just ahead. Ram it steep thousand, so we can push on."

Advertising That Doesn't Count.

It pays to be honest, whether you advertise the fact or not.—Florida Times-Union.

UNITED STATES SENATOR THOS. H. CARTER, SLATED FOR SUPREME COURT.

Helena, Mont.—United States Senator Thomas H. Carter, defeated for reelection at the recent election, is slated for a seat in the supreme court of the United States. Close friends of the senator announced that he had been tendered the seat vacated by Associate Justice Moody.

Senator Carter hurriedly left for Washington. He refused to confirm or deny the story told by his friends here.

The resignation of Associate Justice William H. Moody of the supreme court of the United States is effective now, reducing the members on the bench to seven. Thomas Henry Carter is an "Oldson by birth." For more than twenty years he has occupied a prominent place in politics, and during the presidential campaign of 1892 was chairman of the republican national committee and manager of the thirteenth campaign. He moved from Burlington, Iowa, to Montana in the early days of the territory, settling at Helena, where he still resides. He was elected a delegate to the fifty-first congress, and when the state was admitted to the union became its first representative in the lower house.

Later he became commissioner of public lands, serving from March, 1891, to July, 1892, when he was chosen chairman of the republican national committee. He was a delegate to the national conventions of 1896, 1900 and 1904.

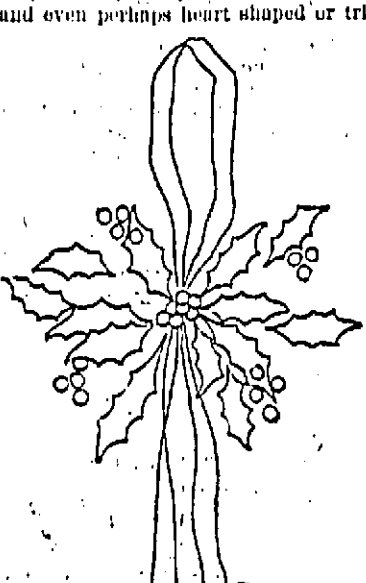

In January, 1895, he was elected to the United States senate by the Montana legislature, taking his seat for the term beginning March 4, of that year, and ending March 4, 1901. In January, 1905, he was elected senator to succeed Park Gibson, Democrat, for another six-year term. He took his seat March 4, next, when his seat will be taken by a democrat.

WRAPPING OF PRESENTS.

Dainty Coverings That Render Gifts Half Again as Acceptable.

With the approach of the holiday season those who are thrifty and forehanded in the little matter of their gifts and the giving of them will buy a suitable box for each new present they select, or they will, upon collecting all their gifts together, measure and make a list of their sizes and then, upon some delightful afternoon or evening, will be in the pleasant business of decorating them.

They will be plain white to begin with, and they will no doubt be of varying shapes—square, round, oblong and even perhaps heart shaped or triangular.

DECORATION FOR BOX LIDS.

angular—for the box of today is an interesting little article and the correct boxing and wrapping of gifts a science that renders the gift half again as acceptable.

The designs in holly and mistletoe are intended to be traced upon the box lids and touched with a quick dash of opaque watercolor. No art is required, but only a deft touch and neatness, besides the little pans of vermilion, green, black and white, which may be had in opaque paint, and a small camel's hair brush.

The round design, a conventional holly wreath, may be used on the round and the square box and even on one end of the oblong shape. Either of the smaller ones belongs to the smallest boxes of almost every shape, and they may also be repeated upon the paper that wraps the box if this method of decoration is preferred to a spray of actual holly.

An Attractive Card Case.

Some very interesting color effects are obtained in Japanese embroidery, which is very easily done, the major part of the work being satin stitch. A little care in the placing and want of the stitch will give an iridescent effect as the glossy embroidery silk catches the light.

A design is given to be applied to a card case of linen, pongee or moire silk. This design would be very striking done on pongee, embroidered with brilliant blue and green peacock colors and lined with a bright peacock blue.

JAPANESE CARD CASE DESIGN.

satin. It adds to the Japanese effect to introduce glyphs of gold threads, which may be crocheted on.

Cut a piece of pongee ten inches long and four and one-half inches wide. Place the design two and a half inches from one end. The design may be transferred on the material by means of carbon paper. When the embroidery is finished baste the material on a piece of crinoline nine and a half inches long and four inches wide. Baste the lining on the other side and turn in the edges. Then stitch across both short ends and turn up two inches on each end to form the pockets and stitch down the sides.

The Simplest Fan Bag.

Just to throw together in a hurry and yet to accomplish the most dainty and effective of presents, here is one of the most fascinating of fan bags for the young girl party goer or for the matron who never stirs without her fan.

It is merely a finished strip of Chinese embroidery on satin, the kind ripped from a royal mandarin's old jacket and sold in our country as a curio. The embroidered strips run to blues and yellows and are about thirty inches long. Double one together, wrong side out, and fold the sides with perfect stitches. Face the top with its least obtrusive color in a plain satin or china silk, draw the bag with ribbons of its darker shade run through a casing and put the fan inside or not, according to the dictates of your conscience or your purse.

For Soiled Handkerchiefs.

A handkerchief, 4 1/2 x 4 1/2, fashioned from half a fringed towel twenty-three inches long and twelve inches wide. This is first embroidered in with small flowers, such as violets or forget-me-nots. Dump and iron on the wrong side, then sew it up and stitch across the bottom. The hoop at the top is half of an embroidery frame six inches in diameter, which is hemmed in by hand. To suspend it use half wide satin ribbon.

is a timely thought in connection with Christmas giving. It is a daily reminder to the recipient of your consideration.

Largest Concrete Bridge.
The largest concrete bridge in the world, a huge structure which has attracted world-wide attention among engineers, is just nearing completion at Washington, Connecting Connecticut boulevard, one of Washington's most fashionable drives, over Rock Creek valley, this wonderful bridge is already regarded as a celebrated example of the utility of concrete.

Constructed of molded concrete blocks and monolithic concrete masonry, it is dependent upon itself for support, having no steel framing for reinforcement, says Popular Mechanics. At its highest point the bridge is 120 feet above the bed of the ravine, and its total length, with approaches, 1,400 feet. Congress appropriated $500,000 for construction of the bridge proper.

More Criticism.
President G. Stanley Hall is quoted as saying that songs of the "holly-wolly-dolly" order sung by college girls composed of staid and barbarous in evening dress often suggest downright infidelity. Poor college youths, they do have a hard time trying to fit their vocations and their avocations to the taste of everyone.

Long Engagements.
Beware of long engagements. Don't wait to be rich before you take a wife. Give her the luxury of helping you become successful. -Rev. A. M. Haller, Windsor, N. Y.

FIRE IN REAR OF M'NAMARA STORE

Planking Over Coal Bin Ignited This Morning by Sparks From Receptacle of Burning Refuse.

Shortly before ten o'clock this morning the fire department responded to a call from H. L. McNamara's hardware store on West Milwaukee street. Some particles of burning rubbish from a sheet-iron receptacle in the alley had lodged in cracks between the planking over a coal bin in the rear of the establishment and started a blaze which promised serious trouble, though the bin is separated from the main building by a fire wall of solid masonry. Electric wires leading into the store are attached to the under side of the planking and when all the lights went out it was at first believed that wire trouble was responsible for the flames. The fire was put out with one load of hose and the chemicals. The flames were not communicated to the coal and little damage was done.

Damage in Alley.
The fire department was called shortly before five o'clock yesterday afternoon to extinguish a blaze among some rubbish in the alley of the house occupied by W. H. Thompson on South Academy street. Damage was slight, amounting to about five dollars. The cause of the fire was unknown.

SOME MATTERS OF COUNTY FINANCE

Justice D. W. North of Edgerton Turned Over $862.05 in Fines to the Treasurer.

Sheriff H. C. Scheibel this afternoon cashed an order for $82.26 for short, the few during the past year—the smallest amount the county has ever been called upon to pay for a similar period of time. The sheriff receives a salary of $1,000; $2,500 for boarding the prisoners; and $500 to cover expenses in conveying prisoners to asylums, etc. There are fees for certain services not covered by the county's contract with him but they are dwindling year by year. Sheriff Scheibel has, during his term of office, collected over 130 fines which prisoners failed to pay in the courts and turned them over to the various tribunals.

Justice D. W. North of Edgerton turned over to the county some $662.05 of fines and penalties collected during the period from May to October, inclusive. Of this revenue $310 was received from thirty-one ten dollar fines for drunkenness. There were also a number of $25 fines for "boozing." Edgerton has thirty-one residents on the blacklist. The Janesville municipal court last April turned over $1,950 for a full year and the Deloit court last January, for a similar period, contributed $1,427.25. Ninety-eight per cent of this revenue goes to the state and is turned into the fund which furnishes state aid for schools.

During the year 1910 and up to Dec. 1, County Treasurer A. M. Church has been called upon to pay out for county highway purposes exactly $25,946.

BLANKETS.
A customer said the other day, "What beautiful blankets and so reasonable. I have never seen such like blankets for so little money."

See, compliment, wasn't it? You'll say the same when you see Morton Mill blankets. They can only be had at The Big Store in Janesville and we are selling them cheaper than they can be bought anywhere. They're something new. They're high grade blankets that we sell at low prices. Try a pair these cold nights. Your only regret will be that you didn't buy them before.

EDISON DENIES BEING AN ATHEIST

INVENTOR MAKES CAUSTIC REPLY TO PREACHERS WHO ASSAIL HIM.

IS READY TO TAKE CHANCES

Declares Ministers of Fashionable Churches "Don't Say What They Think; Often They Don't Think"—Golden Rule Should Govern.

New York, Nov. 30.—Thomas A. Edison is out with a reply to the members of the clergy who attacked his recent statement denying the existence of a soul. The wizard of Menlo Park says the ministers have to have something to fuss and fret about.

"That's it," he said, "I'm an atheist now, am I? Those people who call me to account do not even read what I have said. I am not an atheist, never have been, and never said I was. I believe in a supreme intelligence, but I have grave doubts as to whether you and I and all the other good folks of this earth are going to be rescued from our graves to go to some beautiful, shining place up aloft.

"I do not see it, and cannot understand it, and neither do these ministers of fashionable churches. They do not say what they think. Often they do not even think. It is all business with 'em.

Ready to Take Chances.
"They tell me I am heading straight for hell. Maybe I am. But I'll take my chances with the fashionable minister, and if there is such a spot as heaven I'll bet I got there first—yes, even before Doctor Aked.

"Now, here is a sample of what these rich and fashionable and dignified ministers will do. A poor reporter came to me one day for an interview. He is a clever fellow and writes well, but he is handicapped by having had his leg shot off in an engagement in which he was a war correspondent.

"I gave him an interview because his paper wanted it and because I wanted to help him. A certain clergyman made some comments on what I had said in the interview, and the man who had seen me asked him to let him interview him on the same subject. Now what do you think that man of God answered? He said: 'Yes, I will be willing to give you my opinion, but I shall expect to be paid $200.' There is a Christian churchman for you.

Golden Rule Is Best Religion.

"The only religion needed in this world is the Golden Rule. If every one practiced it there would be no more trouble or poverty, or unhappiness. It is a perfectly practical proposition, and would not be hard for most of us to follow if we got a little encouragement from our neighbors. And those who refused to keep it should be forced to by the police. Yes, sir; I'd put every one in jail who wouldn't do unto his neighbor as he would have his neighbor do unto him.

"Religion, hereafter, what do those ministers know about it that I do not? I wonder how many of them have seen the things that are being done at the Rockefeller Institute, where they cut off a leg put it in cold storage for a week and then sew it on again—and it knits and heals and feels and is alive just like any other living limb?"

"I believe implicitly the time is not far distant when they will be able to put a man in cold storage for six months or so and then warm him up and discharge him from the hospital alive and kicking.

Brains Are Like Records.

"Everything is material. We have no thoughts. They are simply impressions that we get from outside. Our brains are like records that take impressions from our environment. We get nothing from within.

"People say I have created things. I never have created anything. I get impressions from the universe at large and work them out, but I am only a plate on a record or a receiving apparatus—what you will."

Father in Will Says They Must Learn Work Thoroughly.

New York, Nov. 30.—The will of James T. Smith, millionaire and the dean of American pottery manufacturers, proves to be a curious one. Its provisions insure the perpetuation intact of his business concerns, the Greenwood Pottery and Greenwood China companies, and make compulsory on his six sons and their sons that they take a thorough course in labor at the pottery works, learning the business in every detail. "This they must do to share in the estate. If they obey this provision handsome annual incomes are guaranteed them. But the estate is to be held without division for 20 years.

WHEELS STOP DURING FUNERAL.

Federal Judge Robert W. Taylor Is Buried at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 30.—Every street car in the city stood still for five minutes while funeral services were being held for Robert W. Taylor, late judge of the United States circuit and district court and ex-congressman from the Eighteenth Ohio district. Judge Taylor was stricken by apoplexy while attending an entertainment Friday night and died a few hours later.

BRANDEIS OFFERS HIS ADVICE TO ROADS FREE

Agrees Without Charge to Tell Rail Men How to Save $1,000,000 a Day.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Louis D. Brandeis, the Boston lawyer, representing the shippers in the rate hearings, talked of the helpful hints he will give the railroad presidents who want to know how to save $1,000,000 a day in the operation of the country's transportation lines. He said he would tell them how to inaugurate scientific operation of railroads, and predicted that the carriers, if they followed his advice, would be surprised to find what economies they would achieve.

C. C. McCain of New York, chairman of the Truck Line association, was examined before the Interstate commerce commission regarding the publication by the association of a pamphlet entitled "The Diminished Purchasing Power of Railroad Earnings." He said he had distributed 25,000 copies of this book at a cost of $5,000.

The object of the pamphlet, he said, was to assert a need for readjustment and raising of rates.

Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, attorney for a number of large shipping concerns, put J. L. Tittemore of Omaha, Wis., on the stand. The latter said that rate classification investigations he had made between 1909 and 1910 showed him that during the decade sustained increases in rates had been made on more than 600 articles and sustained decreases on 261 through changes in classification. He contended that class rates bore more heavily on the necessities of life than did the commodity rates and that the latter constituted an open system of robbing.

RATES ON COAL ARE ADVANCED.

Illinois Commission's Permit Increase of Seven Cents Per Ton.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—The price of coal is expected to advance, so far as Chicago is concerned, as the result of a decision of the Illinois railroad and warehouse commission. The decision grants the railroads a right to increase the freight rates on coal between Illinois mines and Chicago and other industrial centers of the northern part of the state.

Decision of the commission permits an advance of 7 cents a ton, but in the case of the consumers the increase is expected to be something like 25 or 50 cents. On the basis of the 12,324,000 tons of coal brought in to Chicago from Illinois and Indiana during the coal season of 1909-1910, the advance will add $340,000 to the freight bills for Chicago alone.

NAVAL BUDGET IS $127,016,158.

Secretary Meyer's Estimate Slightly Below Last Fiscal Year.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Representative George E. Foss of Illinois, chairman of the house naval committee, received from Mr. Meyer, secretary of the navy, the estimates for the navy for the fiscal year 1911-12. The total of the estimates is $127,016,158. The naval bill passed last spring carried $128,751,624.

Mr. Foss said the $128,751,624 included $14,000,000 for construction of new warships, while the estimates submitted to him by Mr. Meyer did not take into consideration the new ships to be authorized this year.

"SALOME" TABOOED AT CHICAGO.

Opera Is Withdrawn on Protest of Chief of Police.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—"Salome's" fate in Chicago seems settled. Announcement was made by the management of the Chicago Opera company that the third performance of the gruesome mixture of tragedy and music, which was set for next Friday night, has been withdrawn. This action followed a vigorous protest from Chicago's chief of police, who attended the initial performance which startled the good folks of Chicago and who was moved to wrathful criticism after the second rendition of the much-discussed opera.

WOMAN WILL WORK WIRELESS.

First of Her Sex at This Job Sails on Liner Mohawk.

New York, Nov. 30.—The Clyde line steamship Mohawk, which sailed for Charleston and Jacksonville, was equipped with the latest thing in wireless, a woman operator. Miss Graymella Packer of Jacksonville will have charge of the Mohawk's wireless room. She is the first woman to take this post aboard a steamship, coastwise or otherwise. Miss Packer is twenty-two and good looking.

KAISER IN TEMPERANCE WAR.

Orders Naval Officers to Set Example and Aid His Crusade.

Berlin, Nov. 30.—Emperor William has issued an order to the officers of the navy to further his efforts in setting an example of temperance. They should do their utmost, he says, to show the men the injury of intemperance. It is understood he will shortly issue a similar order to the officers of the army. Recently he lectured students and cadets on the evils of alcohol.

University President Dies.

GOV. HARMON WINS BY 100,377.

Receives Largest Plurality Ever Given Any Previous Democratic Executive.

Columbus, O., Nov. 30.—The plurality of Governor Harmon over Warren G. Harding, as shown by official returns, is 100,377. This is more than double the plurality of any previous Democratic governor of Ohio and only 1,300 behind Myron T. Herrick's record Republican plurality in 1903.

A remarkable feature of the election is the more than doubling of the Socialist vote. This year Clifford got 60,637, compared with 28,073 for Handlow in 1903.

GIVES UP FIGHT FOR PRISON.

St. Louis Forger, Caught in France After Chase, Takes Penalty.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 30.—M. Dwight Fortner of St. Louis, under two years' sentence to the penitentiary for forging a name to a $12,000 check, appeared in the supreme court, dismissed his appeal and went to the penitentiary.

Since his conviction a year ago Fortner has been managing a hotel in Eldorado, fighting the case.

Fortner was arrested in Paris, France, after a chase through Central America.

SMOKING IS BARRED AT POLLS.

Seattle Passes Ordinance to Make Election Attractive to Woman.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 30.—An ordinance prohibiting smoking at polling places on election day was passed by the council. It was the direct result of the adoption of the woman suffrage amendment to the state constitution. Its sponsors said they desire to make the polling places attractive to feminine voters.

Steals $1,400,000; Ten Years.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 30.—August Ropke entered a plea of guilty to five counts of an indictment charging embezzlement of funds of the Fidelity Trust company. He was given a penitentiary sentence of 10 to 15 years. The total of his defalcations was $1,400,000. Ropke was secretary of the company's banking department.

Hill's Estate Only $50,000.

New York, Nov. 30.—It is learned that the estate of the late David B. Hill, state Democratic leader for many years, does not amount to over $50,000.

Gypsy Queen Is No More.

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 30.—Stella Cortez Downs, queen of the Gypsies (tribe of gypsies in Spain), is dead, at the age of 45 years. Mrs. Downs came to southern California 15 years ago with a view to locating a colony for the 4,000 members of her tribe. Two years later she met Thomas J. Downs, a Civil war veteran, of Sawtelle, was married to him, and abandoned her original plans.

TOLSTOI PROVIDED FOR WELFARE OF PEASANTS

Daughter Reported Ready to Sell Rights of First Edition and Divide Estate Among Poor.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—It is understood that Count Tolstol's daughter, Alexandra, in obedience to her father's wish, will sell the rights to the first edition of Tolstol's writings for the purpose of buying Yasnaya Polyana from the Tolstol family and dividing the estate, which has an area of 2,500 acres, among the peasants.

The price of the first edition will be about $50,000. It is stated that neither of Tolstol's sons is mentioned in the count's will.

Count Leo Tolstol, son of the late novelist, publishes a bitter denunciation of Count Tcherikoff, the intimate friend and literary agent of the late Count Tolstol. The son declares Tcherikoff was the worst enemy that his father had, and that he was directly guilty of the tragedy of Yasnaya Polyana.

He writes: "The malign influence of Tcherikoff caused the premature death of my father, his superhuman sufferings and the separation from his family."

The son adds that but for his literary agent Count Tolstol would have spent many more peaceful years with the family who loved him. The arrival of Tcherikoff, he says, was the beginning of the end.

INDICT GAYNOR'S ASSAILANT.

Jersey Grand Jury Charge Gallagher With Atrocious Assault.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 30.—The Hudson county grand jury handed up to Judge Blair of the court of common pleas three indictments against James J. Gallagher, the assailant of Mayor Gaynor. Two of the indictments charge atrocious assault with intent to kill Mr. Gaynor and Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards, and the other the carrying of a concealed weapon.

If convicted Gallagher will be liable to a maximum punishment of 15 years.

Automobile Accident Kills Two.

Pittsburg, Kan., Nov. 30.—W. P. Pears and "Paddy" Rabbit, members of a party of five who were hurt in a motor car accident here, are dead. Edward Duncan, one of the injured, is not expected to live. The gasoline tank exploded, wrecking the car.

MEAN TRICK.

He sent her an autumn leaf of red.

And he never knew why she passed him by
With upturned chin and frosty eye.
But the truth of it was some rival fellow
Changed the red to a leaf of yellow.

Find the way.

Something of a Joke.
A good example of the kind of story Mark Twain used to like to weave into his after-dinner speeches was the tale of the drinker who unwillingly put in an application for membership in a temperance society, called the next day on a three years' voyage, on which he kept the pledge in spite of longing and temptation, and returned to resign only to find that his name had been blackballed originally.—Buffalo Commercial.

Would Make No Charge.
"Sir," began the caller, "I come to you in the interest of the city's poor children. I thought you might like to contribute to our fresh air fund for them." "Of course," said Mr. Stinjay, the wealthy suburbanite, "you may take as much fresh air as you please from my place, but how in the world are you going to carry it?"—Stray Stories.

BEER.

Beer contains a small percentage of cereal malt, which is a food, and a small percentage of alcohol, which is not a food, but which is, according to the almost universal opinion of physicians, a stimulant, and injurious when consumed in considerable quantities. There are physicians who prescribe beer in some cases, but the generally accepted opinion is that it should be used in moderation, if at all, and that every reasonable means ought to be adopted to prevent the formation of the habit of using it to excess.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

SEVERAL years ago, when I, a very young newspaper woman, was precariously subsisting on the pittance of a small stipend that my first paper designed to consider me worth, a young newspaper man on the same paper came to me, and, with general embarrassment, blurted out that he was in a terrible financial straits, and could not pay his bills. He asked me to lend him five dollars just until the next pay day.

Now, for several weeks I had been saving every penny that didn't have to go towards my actual living expenses for a suit to the first thing of the sort I was to buy with my own earnings. I had the suit all picked out. It was a dark blue serge and it was to cost fifteen dollars, and I had nine dollars saved towards it. The money was in my top bureau drawer, under my handkerchiefs. Now I knew that I couldn't possibly save the other six dollars for two or three weeks and I didn't see any reason why I shouldn't let the poor man have five dollars of it. Instead of keeping it in that bureau drawer, so I assured him of my great delight at being able to help a brother out in time of trouble, and gave him the money.

He didn't pay it back the next pay day. Nor for very many pay days thereafter. You can imagine my anguish of spirit when the purchase of that beloved and much-needed suit—I wish you could see the funny little coat I was wearing—was delayed. But being a little fool, even that anguish wasn't powerful enough to make me go to the man and ask for the money.

Finally, several months afterwards, he came and told me his father wanted him to leave the newspaper business. He said his family was wealthy, but he had been on the outside with them, and that they were going to get him a place in the diplomatic service. He paid me four of that five dollars. I never saw the other dollar. I have seen him twice since, but he never spoke of it.

Perhaps you think this is a queer story to publish, but I'll explain to you how I came to tell it. I had always thought, until recently, that my experience was a unique one, and that man was not apart by his absolute lack of sense of honor from the rest of the world of men.

But, within the last year, there have come to my ears a half dozen stories of men who have borrowed from women and never paid back the loan.

One young lady was visiting at the home of friends of her family. The son of the house, who entertained her most royally, professed a temporary financial embarrassment, owing to a delayed check, and borrowed seventy-five cents of her "just for the day."

He never paid it back or even spoke of the loan.

Now I am one of those people who think it the unpardonable sin for a man to borrow money from a woman.

But for the man who borrows money from a woman, and then betrays her unwillingness to refer to the subject of not paying back the loan—well, my dictionary hasn't words to fit him.

And, as for the girl who loans money to a man, I'd like to say two things to her.

First, if it is a large sum, she should take a note. That isn't a sign of suspicion, merely of common sense.

And, second, if he fails to pay it back within a reasonable time, I think she should ask him for it, and if that does no good, I think it is her absolute duty, for the safety of other women, to pillory him by telling what he has done.

Ways of Serving Game.

A prairie chicken is especially good roasted with a dusting of sage besides the salt and pepper.

Ducks are sometimes stuffed with apples pared and cored and cut in quarters. Others like three small onions used for stuffing. Neither of these are to be served with the ducks, but are removed before serving. Another favorite stuffing is a bunch of celery. Bake 20 minutes in a very hot oven, basting every five minutes with the fat in the pan. Remove the string and skewers before taking to the table. Serve with orange or olive sauce. Currant jelly should accompany a duck course.

Tough ducks are steamed an hour and then braised. To braise, fry out two slices of fat salt pork, remove the scraps and add to the fat five slices of carrot-cut in cubes, one-half of a sliced onion, two sprigs of parsley, one bay leaf, then cook ten minutes; add two tablespoonsful of butter, and fry the duck, turning often until the surface is well browned. Place on a trivet in a pan, pour over the fat and add two cups of hot water or soup or stock. Cover and bake in slow oven until tender, basting often and adding more water if needed.

To broil a quail, allow ten minutes for cooking. Serve on slices of lemon. Currant jelly should accompany this course.

Larded Grouse.—Clean and, if tough, remove the skin covering the breast. Lard the breast with slices of salt pork and broil two lardons in each leg. Lay on a trivet in a shallow pan, rub with salt and melted butter, dredge with flour and surround with the trimmings of the fat. Bake twenty to thirty minutes in a hot oven, basting three times. Arrange on a platter and pour around larding sauce, sprinkle the bird and sauce with coarse bread crumbs. Garnish with parsley.

Roast quail are baked the same as larded grouse. Plover is broiled or roasted the same as quail.

Better Side of Human Nature.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By ROSE TERRELL.

Among the latest things in head-gear for women and girls is the knit or crocheted hood. This is a revival of many years ago and is an evolution of the toboggan cap, or hood. Crocheted in delicate colors and intricate patterns and shapes they are both charming and comfortable. For the girl who motors or skates they are especially useful while the schoolgirl who would scorn the toboggan cap of a few years ago will find them very charming.

If your white petticoat shows sign of wear about the edge of embroidery, try cut it straight across and sew on either a rill of lace or a simple scalloped edge. It will not be noticeable and will prolong the life of the skirt for many months.

Where it is possible dry wet umbrellas spread wide. This saves the handiwork of the crumpled where the wear shows first. A sponge on the bottom of the umbrella stand during wet weather will keep it from over-flowing and save damage.

There is found at either the embroidery counter or in the notions department of all large stores a narrow embroidered edge similar to the finishing bands. Its uses are manifold. It is the neat and dainty and inexpensive. Where there is no time to work an edge this may be used to advantage and hinders stitched down so as to resemble hand work.

A charming gift for a bride is a set of small cook books in a small rack of a size to stand in the pantry. These books come in sets, each containing a special kind of recipe, but if desired to make very personal they may be small leather covered books of blank pages save where you have collected tried family recipes for the bride's use, leaving the rest of the pages blank for the results of her own experiments.

A new pudding sauce which is unusually good is made of butter and powdered sugar creamed as for ordinary hard sauce. When thoroughly blended and light stir in a cup of stiff whipped cream and the well beaten white of one egg. Flavor to suit and serve with the pudding.

Always have a bit of green on the table. The habit is a refining one and the table can be made much more inviting. If there are no flowers at least have some growing plant. The so-called air plant serves a certain purpose and is of little trouble, but it fails to take the place of a pot or vase of real flowers. If you are far from green houses and are dependent upon your own resources plant a few pots of old-fashioned "moss." It will soon develop into a thing of beauty for the luncheon and breakfast tables, and if carefully shielded from the light may sometimes be induced to keep awake for the evening meal.

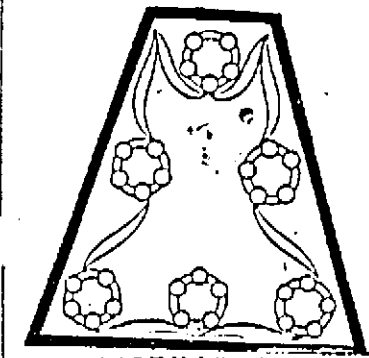

There is a certain charm in the many colors and memories which cling to this old-fashioned plant which conveys itself under the name of cornucopia in the catalogues. If used to decorate a luncheon table where women just 40 congregate it will stir many memories of childhood.

As summer wanes the housewife is sometimes sadly disturbed for variety. When the table seems to be a repetition of the days gone before the salad may be the life preserver so to speak. A new one, or a new combination of an old one will serve to relieve an otherwise ordinary meal. Try surdines, drained and chopped with olives and almonds. Serve on lettuce leaves, with French dressing.

Make bottled mayonnaise in double quantities as it will keep for two weeks in the winter time. Make very thick and thin with either whipped cream or with olive oil added very slowly.

Save all left over bits of vegetable or fish for salad combinations and have no fear of results.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Candle shades are an old idea, but to use picture post cards is a new thought. If the cards are carefully selected this much abused form of pictorial art may become both artistic and carry a pretty sentiment.

Have at hand passepartout in black sheets of black paper, heavy translucent cover paper, such as photographers use, paste and sharp scissors, and a good ruler. Accuracy is one of the first requisite for finished work. If the shade is for the den or a sportsman select well colored cards of hunting or fishing scenes. If he is a football hero there are sets of cards depicting the game as there are of golf and baseball. Cut four pieces of the cover paper like pattern. The lower space to hold the trimmed card. Paste the card on. If they seem thick, split them. Paste them together with the passepartout and edge all four sides with the passepartout.

If the shade is for a girl the cover paper should be covered again with china silk in any desired shade. Heads of children or fancy heads or scenes should be cut out and pasted on. For a child's room, to cover the electric light bulb, rows of dancing children may run around the shade. For the hostess who entertains, the china silk cover should be used, and a design of the black paper cut and fitted over. When the edges are joined with the black passepartout the effect is very good.

Round shades of flowered cretonne are finished in the same way except that a thin silk fringe is pasted around the under side of the lower edge.

Hammered brass or pierced brass shades are also acceptable, especially when they are sent in company with an art candlestick of the same metal. For the girl who has plenty of money the large lamp shades made of cretonne are not an impossibility. The French flowered cretonne is used and the frame should be made at the hardware shop, as it must be very firm. The cretonne shade is sewed firmly to the frame and the edges covered with heavy black braid, while the lower edge is finished with fringe in black. The frames cost several dollars and the cretonne is expensive. The whole shade will cost about $6 or $7 when completed, but it is the "last word" in lamp decoration.

For the girl who would like to make something different in the shade line and who cannot draw, I suggest some of the easily transferred patterns for embroidery. These should be selected with care and transferred to the thin cover paper, matching the colors neatly. They can then be colored and the edges strengthened with a line of black paint. This is easy and still artistic. The pencils can then be put together in the usual way. If embroidered the jewels may be sewed on and a bead fringe used.

Experience. "Why did you pick out a widower to be your second husband?" "I wanted some one who could come in at night without waking me up."

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig out the corners and drive out the decayed food particles. Moreover, soap leaves your dishes with a soapy, animal-fat smell, that is far from inviting.

GOLD DUST is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. GOLD DUST sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, GOLD DUST will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

NEED NO OPERATION IN APPENDICITIS CASES

Dr. Page, Leading Boston Surgeon, Calls it Criminal and Cites Death of Clyde Fitch and Gov. Johnson for Example.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 4.—"An operation for appendicitis should be called a criminal operation, and as such should be prohibited by law," So declares Dr. Charles E. Page, one of Boston's best known physicians. "I have been following the records of appendicitis operations ever since the craze for appendectomy started," says Dr. Page, "and I confidently believe that the day is coming when the people will finally recognize that appendectomy—cutting of the appendix—is a criminal operation. As for the widely proclaimed benefits and saving of life by operations to cut the appendix, it seems hardly necessary to cite the long list of deaths following the operation. Only recently we have striking instances of Clyde Fitch, the great playwright, and Gov. Johnson of Minnesota.

"The surgeons cut off Gov. Johnson's appendix a year or so ago; they operated on him a second time, and on the third he fell a victim to mistaken modern theories. I have kept track of the appendectomy deaths for twenty years and the list is appalling."

And now perhaps you people of Janesville and vicinity will begin to believe what I have been telling you through the columns of this paper for the past two years, that 60 per cent of the cases of so-called appendicitis can be cured by treatment without the use of the knife, operation or danger.

My best reference is the many grateful patients I have cured. Some right here near Janesville and to whom I will gladly refer you if you wish to write them regarding same.

THEATRE

THE GREAT AMERICAN PLAY "PAID IN FULL"

Next spring, or at the end of the current theatrical season, the United Play Co., if so inclined, can give out some highly interesting statistics. They will bear upon Eugene Walter's far famed play "Paid in Full," and they will indicate how near truth is the prediction that this celebrated American drama will steadily grow in favor and outlive in popularity any other on the stage. Such a future is widely prophesied for "Paid in Full" and it seems certain of fulfillment, judging from the figures its producers have made public concerning it. These figures show that during its first two years, up to the close of last season, "Paid in Full" has made a record eclipsing that of any other Widow Walth's "Annie Laurie" and "Home Sweet Home" every Sunday and yet they say the world is getting better. A most complete and universally satisfactory example of modern industry is demonstrated in the one melodramatic novelty of the season "The Fighting Parson," by Leon H. Parker, which W. P. Mann offers for public approval at Myers Theatre next Friday, December 2.

"The Fighting Parson" is a type of manhood you are sure to like. Get acquainted with him and he will be the better for it.

As a general rule Juliet is the goal aimed at by the average actress who imagined herself gifted with the divine dramatic fire. However, in the isolated case of Miss Emily Ann Well-play known to the American stage. More than 2,500,000 persons had paid to see it, which is the record for any play in equal time. Five companies appeared in it simultaneously at last season, more than ever before had acted one play, and the same companies are doing it again this season. The profits to the producers up to the close of last season were more than a quarter of a million dollars, while the author, Eugene Walter, was made rich by his royalties.

So much for the past. This showing is an interesting illustration of the big rewards of successful plays, and "Paid in Full" is the biggest success of them all. So far this season, it has verified the opinion that its popularity would increase yearly. At the end of the season it will have piled up a total of performances and patronage man who is leading by example support to Mr. Louis Mann in "The Cheater" which that exceptionally fine artist brings to the Myers Theatre Saturday, Dec. 3, matinee and evening. Her ambitions are directed towards an attempt to play the role of Nora in Ibsen's "A Doll's House" and in all probability her great desire will shortly be gratified. For Mr. Mann has promised Miss Wellman that she will be given an opportunity to appear as Nora at a special matinee performance in the near future and if his faith in her ability is proven, "A Doll's House" will be presented at frequent matinee performances during the season.

It will be pleasantly remembered that Miss Wellman acquired herself admirably in Mr. Mann's last year's production of "The Man Who Stood and profits that will be the theatrical wonder of the age. And it deserves to do so. It is the greatest, the most popular, the most entertaining play of the time. You know this if you've seen it; if not go to the Myers Theatre Thursday, December 1st, matinee and evening and be convinced, for "Paid in Full" will be the attraction then, and by your attendance you will help swell its famous record.

Modern industry is coming more in vogue every day. The old orthodox ideas are gradually becoming extinct, even in the rural districts. We can remember hearing our grandfathers say that it used to be considered a sin to whistle or whistle on Sunday.

Think of the number of drygoods boxes whittled to pieces every Sunday on our street corners; think of the murderous attacks upon "The Merry Still" and in the character of Fredrick Halloway in "The Cheater" Miss Wellman is reported as having achieved even a more substantial success than in any play with which she has been identified since she placed herself under the careful stage training of Mr. Mann, who recognizing her talents from the onset of her engagement has devoted considerable time to conforming her talents to his artistic ends.

In a recent interview with Miss Wellman she declared most emphatically that the reason why she desired to play Nora is that her conception of Ibsen's masterpiece corresponded precisely to the story of her own life. She said, "It distinguished author had written the character of 'Nora' inspired by her own career in private life, he could not have hit the mark more sure, for the more she has studied 'Nora' the more convincing has it become that her own life's history has been told in the play."

Miss Wellman's experience on the stage has been almost entirely confined to Mr. Mann's company, whose fatherly interest in her advancement promises a bright future for her and she never tires of expressing her deepest gratitude for the assistance Mr. Mann has given her in order to gratify her ambitions. Indeed, while Miss Wellman is looking forward to stellar honors she hopes that in the meanwhile she may be allowed to continue her study under Mr. Mann's personal direction.

40 FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Gazette, Nov. 30, 1870.—Jottings—A meeting of the citizens over which Mayor Doe presided, was held at the council room last night, to take action in regard to the organization of a board of trade, and to appoint a committee to procure subscriptions to the Harris Manufacturing Company's stock. The following is the committee appointed: M. C. Smith, Alex. Graham, H. Richardson, Joseph Rootwick, E. B. Lawrence, J. P. Cassidy, Willard Merrill, James Sutherland, and T. H. Little. Several thousand dollars were subscribed on the spot, and assurances were given the committee that the stock would be fully subscribed. It is gratifying that our citizens have at last awakened to the necessity of action in this matter. They are now indicating their appreciation of the value of home manufactures, in a number of ways, and the future prosperity of our city.

Rev. A. M. Case of this city has accepted a call to preach at the Methodist church at Burlington, in this state.

Mr. R. C. Tompkins has taken the jewelry store in the Myers house block, and will hereafter attend to the business.

Mr. George W. Randall arrived in this city today, direct from Chicago agency, on the Missouri River. He has been relieved from future duty at that post.

Evansville boys are not allowed to play billiards in peace. A suit is in progress before Judge Prentiss this afternoon, against the proprietor of a billiard table in that village, for permitting a minor to play the game on said table, against the provision of the state law which prohibits boys under 21 years of age from such indulgence.

Mr. E. P. Knowlton, the sculptor, has received a large boulder of Cararra marble, weighing two thousand pounds which he is having sawed into a bust of ex-Governor Dodge. The work will occupy the greater portion of his time during the next six months.

DEATH OF ISAACSON STILL UNEXPLAINED

Verdict Of Coroner's Jury At Beloit Throws Little Light On the Mystery.

Isaac Isaacson's death in the town of Turtle on the twenty-first of October is still enveloped in mystery. The coroner's jury met in adjourned session in Justice Peck's court at Beloit yesterday morning and after listening to testimony were satisfied that Prof. E. G. Smith, chemist, found one third of a grain of morphine in the dead man's stomach. Whether the poison was present in sufficient quantity to have caused death and by whom it was administered the jurors were unable to determine. Prof. Smith said on the stand that he found no traces of poison in the liver and that no examination had been made of the intestines. Despite exhaustive inquiries conducted by District Attorney J. L. Fisher, Sheriff Scholten, and Chief of Police Quinlan within a radius of ten miles of the Isaacson home, it has not been possible to determine where and by whom the poison was obtained. Mrs. Isaacson was on the stand for more than half an hour but threw no light on this phase of the mystery. She met District Attorney Fisher's volley of pertinent questions with perfect composure, giving a detailed account of finding her husband dead when she returned to the home at three o'clock in the afternoon.

Dickens Read in All Countries.
Dickens' public passes beyond the bounds of our empire. There is America—with its 85,000,000 of people and its widespread, its fervent regard for Dickens. There is France, where Daudet could write: "Little Nell and Paul Dombay came to me as a revelation of purity and innocence." There is Germany, where, as Hucan said: "Dickens compels tears and laughter amongst Germans as amongst his own people." There is Russia, where Tolstoy relates that he found the "Christmas Carol" in the cabins of the humblest serfs, and where "Oliver Twist" and "Nicholas Nickleby" are read in seven different translations in the realms of the czar.—The Dickensian.

JAMES W. HELME, AT OUTS WITH THE "REGULARS" IN GRANGE.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The most sensational development of the session of the National Grange being held in this city has been the expulsion of J. W. Helme of Adrian, Mich., and Geo. P. Hampton of New York City from the sixth degree of the organization. They are charged with malicious slander on the present administration.

These two men left the insurance against the administration, charging it is alleged, that the officers failed to extend the Grange because they feared they would be unable to control the vote.

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON
Copyright, 1910, by Doubleday, Page & Company, Copyright, 1908, by the McClure Company.

Loveland, within bowling distance now, met the glance and returned it, smiling. He was annoyed that Cadwallader Hunter should be with the party, even though evidently not of it. Yet, after all, he said to himself, perhaps it was as well. He did not mean to apologize to Cadwallader Hunter, for he thought his own rudeness more or less justified by the liberty the other had taken, but he had already made up his mind that the next time he met him he would not act as if anything disagreeable had happened. As to Cadwallader Hunter's readiness to snatch at the olive branch, Loveland had not the slightest doubt of it. He thought he had only to hold out a hand for the major to kiss it, groveling.

Ellnor Coolidge did not blush at the sight of Lord Loveland as Fanny Milton did, but her beautiful face changed curiously. Its canaliculi lines hardened, her lips were pressed together, and her large eyes narrowed, gleaming like topazes between their dark lashes, as the lights from the shaded candles on the table lighted sparks in their yellow-brown depths.

The thought flashed into Loveland's head that the quick change in her face meant jealousy of Fanny Milton. He had noticed more than once on shipboard that she had seemed jealous of Fanny, and now that deep blush of the younger girl's at sight of him had probably vexed her.

"How do you do?" he asked, pausing at the table.

Instead of answering or putting out her hand to him, as he expected, Ellnor almost convulsively grasped the sticks of a delicate little fan which lay beside her plate. She shot a topaz glance at one of the two new men, then let her eyes under raised brows seek and hold her father's.

Lord Loveland was at once surprised and puzzled by this extraordinary reception. "Can Cadwallader Hunter have told them all some lie to set them against me?" he asked himself.

CHAPTER VIII.

CADWALLADER HUNTER'S REVENGE.
The sound of Loveland's voice Cadwallader Hunter straightened up in haste and turned round, looking suddenly stiff and wicked as a frozen snake.

He stared into Loveland's eyes, his own like gray glass, and an unpromising smile depressed the corners of his thin lips.

"Oh, that's it, is it?" thought Val with the carelessness of a man used to dominating situations. "He's afraid I'm not going to speak to him, and he doesn't speak first for fear of being snubbed again. Well—and Val felt pleasantly magnanimous—"I'll give him a lesson. How are you?" he asked with the patronizing tone his voice unconsciously took when he spoke to this man.

Then he could hardly believe his eyes, which told him that Cadwallader Hunter had turned a contemptuous shoulder upon him, darting disgust in a venomous glance.

"This is the person we were speaking of," he said to the dark, clean-shaven man toward whom he had been bending the seemed always to be bounding toward someone when Loveland came up. "Shall we have him turned out?"

Mr. Coolidge half rose in his seat, looking his characteristic stolidity. "No, no," he returned in a low, decided voice; "there must be no scene here, for the ladies' sake. Keep quiet, everybody."

"You're right, Coolidge," returned the dark, smooth-faced man.

Then the latter fixed his eyes on Loveland with a stare under a frown, and the other woman stared also, but the three women looked away, trying in vain to think of something easy and natural to say to each other.

Val stood for a moment stupidly, like a boy in the schoolroom who has been bidden to stand up and be stared at as a punishment for some misdemeanor. He was almost inclined to laugh at the insolence of Cadwallader Hunter, as a lion might laugh at a fox for worrying his foot. It was on his lips to say: "What a temper in a tea-pot! Surely you're not going to believe any idiotic tale that this hunting ass may have trumped up about me!"

Then he passed on toward his own table. There were two chairs at Loveland's table—placed in case he might choose to bring a guest—and he deliberately selected the one which put him with his back to the Coolidge party. But he had forgotten that Major Cadwallader Hunter was not one of that party and might wander at will to any part of the dining room. Presently he did begin to wander, stopping to talk with another group of people, then with another, and so on, always on his way somewhere else.

A polite waiter had slipped a menu into the hand of Loveland, who regarded the decorated square of cardboard as if it were a fetish to preserve him from evil. But if he had decided to let his eye follow Cadwallader Hunter he would have seen that each group of people glanced with furtive curiosity at him; stared, whispered, stared again and afterward signaled each other from table to table.

Cadwallader Hunter prided himself on knowing all the people who were worth knowing wherever he went. He had dined early because he had been minded to show himself rather late at the first performance of a new comedy by the brilliant young playwright, Sidney Cremer, but now he found himself appearing on the stage and acting almost a leading part in a drama a hundred times more exciting than he could see at any theater. He went straight from the restaurant to the long row of desks in the hotel office for a heart to heart talk with the clerk he had interviewed in the morning. Then, having made the impression and obtained the assurance he desired, he searched for other acquaintances in that vast decorative corridor of marble, facetiously known as "Pecock alley."

Meanwhile Loveland ordered his dinner, though not quite as carefully as he would have it not been for the disagreeable little incident which he tried to forget as if it were but one more in the series of pin pricks. As he had no money at present to pay for it he thought he might as well draw his vexatious champagne and asked for a bottle of the brand he liked best without even inquiring the New York conception of its price.

As the waiter would have gone off with the order Val called him back on a sudden thought. "Do you know the names of the people at the table where I stopped?"

"Yes, sir," replied the man. "They are very well known here. We often have them dining and luncheon. Mr. Coolidge is a millionaire. He and his daughter are just back from Europe, and Mrs. and Miss Milton too."

"Yes, yes," said Loveland impatiently. "I know all that. But the others?" "Oh, the smooth-shaved gentleman with the black hair and prominent eyes—he's Mr. Milton. Mrs. Milton's husband—rather a gay sort of gentleman, sir. The story is he and Mrs. Milton don't get along very pleasantly. There'll be plenty here tonight will be interested seeing them together just after her coming home with the young lady. And the other gentleman, sir—the good looking young one with the dark mustache—that's one of our greatest New York swells, Mr. Henry van Coter. He's—"

"Thank you—that will do," broke in Loveland, suddenly annoyed by the servant's knowing loquacity. The name of Henry van Coter had in such a connection, stirred a dim sense of discomfort within him. "This Van Coter was one of Harborough's friends. Val had left him a letter and a visiting card this afternoon at a huge palace of an 'apartment house' where Mr. van Coter had a flat."

At last he saw his waiter coming back and was about to ask irritably whether the man thought it was tomorrow's breakfast he'd ordered when a sealed envelope of the hotel paper was laid on the table in place of the expected oysters.

The servant discreetly retired out of sight behind his lordship's chair like a little boy who has lit a squib and awaits the explosion, and Loveland tore open the envelope, which, very oddly, he thought, was not addressed.

"Sir," he read in tenting, "the management of the hotel present their compliments and inform you that the suit you are occupying will be required from this evening; also that they regret they have no other room to place at your disposal. They therefore inclose your account up to date and request the favor of immediate payment. Should you wish for dinner and wine they would be obliged if you would kindly pay in advance. The bill for same (as ordered by you) is inclosed separately from the other account."

Lord Loveland, hardly knowing what he said or did in the persistent nightmare from which he could not wake, called the waiter to him from ambush behind his chair. The man came, with eyes cast patiently down, not to meet the angry blaze turned dangerously upon him.

"There must be some mistake here," said Loveland, folding up the paper and replacing the three sheets in the envelope with fingers that were not quite steady. "This can't be for me. You see, there's no name on the thing. You've brought it to the wrong person."

"No, sir," returned the servant; "I was told to bring it to you. If there's a mistake, sir, it isn't my who's made it."

"Very well, then, somebody else has," insisted Loveland. "I tell you this can't possibly be meant for me. Give the envelope back to whoever gave it to you and ask him to hand it to the manager, saying that in error it was delivered to Lord Loveland."

"Yes, sir," The waiter obediently took charge of the offensive envelope and handed away with it to confer at a distance with the person from whom it had been received five minutes ago. There were a few gestures, a few shrugs, and then the two approached Lord Loveland's table together.

"It's quite right, sir," murmured the newcomer. "The letter is for you, sir. There's no mistake."

Deadly white under his brown tan, Val rose without a word, crumpling the envelope in a hand that trembled to clutch some one by the throat and fling down a silver dollar for the waiter. The Coolidges and their party were still at the violet decked table as Loveland passed by, but he did not see them. He had forgotten their existence.

"Papa, the major has done it!" exclaimed Ellnor Coolidge, looking across at her father, who sat between Mrs. Milton and Fanny.

"Yes, he has done it," replied Mr. Coolidge, smiling the wooden smile which was of late, curved ivory when reproduced on the beautiful face of his daughter. "I don't know what's come over the major since this morning. He seemed to love that Englishman like a son on board the Mauretania, but to-night he fairly jumped out of himself with joy when he heard Van Coter's piece of news."

"I'm sure we were all as nice as we could be to Lord—," faltered Fanny Milton, who had drained the lake from her eyes when no one was looking, but only to make way, it seemed, for a new supply of salt water.

"Oh, speak for yourself, Fanny," said Mrs. Milton, with her exaggerated English accent. "As for me, I—"

"Why, mamma, you were just lovely to him every minute!" cried the girl, defending herself briskly. "If you weren't married, with a grownup daughter, people might have thought you were in love with him yourself sometimes."

"Nonsense!" retorted Fanny's mother, darting a furious look at her child. "The way you talk shows you're not grown up."

"I always thought he was the most conceited young man I ever saw," broke in Ellnor Coolidge. "I could have boxed his ears often, and I would have served him right. I just enjoy this. It's like a play."

"Well, I think that's real mean of you, Ellnor," said Fanny. "And I don't see how you can feel that way. He looks so pale. It makes me sick to think what he's got to go through. Poor fellow, and he's so handsome! Did you ever see anything as beautiful as he looked just now when he went stalking by us with his head high and his face pale and his eyes like blue fire?"

"I certainly never saw a British lord as handsome. They don't make 'em like that," said good looking Henry van Coter. And then they all laughed, all except Fanny Milton. She was wondering what Lesley Dummer would do if she were there instead of tearing away toward Louisville as fast as an express train could carry her.

As it happened, Lesley was thinking of Lord Loveland at that very moment. Perhaps it was a kind of telepathy which brought her image so clearly before Fanny Milton's eyes, for Lesley's thoughts included Fanny.

BALDHEADED MEN

Ignorance of the Hair Causes Much Baldness Among Men.

Early plety doesn't cause baldness, neither does any kind of plety. Some baldheaded men console themselves with the idea that baldness is caused by a superabundance of gray brain matter, and would have the world believe that a baldhead is a sign of great intellect.

Such, however, is not the case. Ninety-nine times out of one hundred, baldness is caused by dandruff germs which dig down deep into the roots of the hair destroy its vitality and cause it to fall out.

All this may come gradually and take time, but as an up-to-date humorist would say "what's time to a dandruff germ?"

If you have dandruff, the little invisible, persistent devil called dandruff germs are at work. Destroy them at once, sooner or later they will cause you to lose your hair and you will be compelled to take your place in the baldheaded class.

In France baldheads are few because men understand how to care for the hair. Parisian Sage is a hair grower and invigorator that is guaranteed by The People's Drug Company to grow hair if the hair root is not already destroyed, to eradicate dandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair, or money back.

DON'T TRUST SAFETY DEVICES

German Railways Put Reliance on Caution and Efficiency of Employees.

The recrudescence of terrible railway disasters in the United States lends added interest to the report just published by the German state railway administration regarding its exhaustive investigation of the most practicable methods for the prevention of accidents.

The automatic block-signal system has never been generally introduced in Germany because the authorities have preferred to place their reliance on the caution and reliability of their employees.

The official report declares that nothing has been discovered to cause the state railway management to abandon its prejudice against electrical and other mechanical so-called accident-prevention systems. In the course of the year about 200,000,000 "halt" signals were given to German trains of various kinds. Only in fifty-one instances have there been accidents due to failure to heed signals, or 1 accident to every 4,000,000 signals.

Automatic signals nowhere show nearly such satisfactory results, the Prussian authorities having ascertained that where they are used there is 1 accident to every 10,000 signals, or nearly more than the infrequent disasters on German lines.

The administration will continue to investigate thoroughly every promising mechanical signal device, but it thinks that safety on German railways will, as in the past, be best safeguarded by a staff of wide-awake and lynx-eyed engineers, signalmen, and station masters.

INVENTS AIRSHIP RAILWAY

German Engineer's Device Is Cross Between Electric Railway and the Airship.

The airship railway is a cross between the electric railway and the airship and it hails from a German engineer named Lepa. A balloon supports the weight of passenger cars which run on aerial cables and are propelled by electricity. The balloon is a horizontal cylinder with conical ends and is about 200 feet long and 23 feet in diameter. Below and attached to the balloons are the cars, each accommodating 60 passengers.

They are made of steel, wood and canvas and provided with windows. There is a small forward compartment for the motor and motor. The larger compartment has folding tables, revolving chairs and electric light and heating and other conveniences. The cars are propelled by electric motors capable of developing a speed of 125 miles an hour.

To test the Lepa aerial railway a short experimental line is to be constructed from Marburg to the summit of a neighboring hill. The promoters believe that the operating expenses of a railway of this sort would be about one-fourth those of an ordinary railway and that the diminution in the cost of right of way would reduce the initial outlay to about $70,000 a mile.

They believe that the 6,000-mile journey from Berlin to Vladivostok, now occupying 17 days via the Siberian railway, could be achieved in three days by the Lepa system. But the incredulous point to engineering and financial objections to the novel aeronautic railway and declare that this fanciful road is never likely to exist save on paper.

A Little Knowledge.
Surgeon Gen. Rixey was talking in Washington about his recent statement concerning the harm that cigarettes do sailors.

"Let them defend the cigarette as they please," he said; "whenever I hear these defenses I think of the sick horse and the turpentine."

"Tom met Bill on the road one day."

"Bill, I want a word with you," he said.

"Be quick, then," said Bill. "I'm in a hurry."

"What did you give your sick horse the other day?"

"Tom hurried home, and poured a pint of turpentine down the throat of his own ailing nag, which at once grew worse, and in an hour was dead."

"Then Tom, disgusted with Bill's veterinary advice, sought him out."

"Why, Bill," he said, "I gave my horse a pint of turpentine, and it killed him."

"So it did mine," said Bill.

Railroad School in China.

An indication of the interest taken by the central government in the future of railways in China is afforded by the establishment last year, in connection with the Ministry of Communications at Peking, of a school for training railway officials. The school is built for 600 students, but the number is at present limited to 350, who come from all parts of the empire and vary in age from 18 to 25. There are about 30 teachers, including one British, one American (a drill sergeant), two French and two German. Most of the teachers are Chinese students returned from abroad and they are well paid.

The curriculum includes the Chinese language, drill, geography, history of Chinese railways, mathematics, drawing, chemistry, physics, traffic management, railway bookkeeping, elements of engineering—steam and electrical, workshop administration and railway company law.—Pail Mall Gazette.

Electric Lines Forging Ahead.

"Gradually," says the Railway Journal, "the large electric roads are working their way into the traffic arena with the steam lines. The latter are slowly entering into contracts with the electric lines in the interchange of freight traffic. All this is due to the growth and development of the electric lines, the business of which has grown to such an extensive importance that in some instances the steam roads can no longer refuse to reciprocate in the exchange of business. It looks, too, as though the beginning is small as compared with what it will be in a few years. The questions will soon be asked, will the steam and electric lines make a competitive fight for the business where competition is possible? Will the steam roads try to do away with cheaper competition by absorbing the electric lines? Or will the steam roads become electric lines themselves and all be operated at practically the same relative expense? A common basis will be evolved in some way."

Western Coal Lands.

It is estimated that already about one-half of the total area of high-grade coal lands in the west is under private control, and only about 20,000,000 acres are left for possible government control. Prof. Holmes, who has been conducting the government investigation, has found that there is an enormous waste of fuel of account of the rejection of low-grade material. He says that not less than 50 per cent of the natural coal supply is left underground and permanently lost. In one instance in a 25-foot vein a layer four feet thick was mined and 21 feet left behind; and in an average eight-foot vein two feet of the low-grade coal is left behind.—Railway Age.

Playing Before the King Exclusively.

A "command" to play before the king is always appreciated by actors, but the honor of taking a company to Windsor or Sandringham is an expensive one, says the Dundee Advertiser. First-class railway tickets are provided by his majesty's secretary, but everything else has to be paid by the manager. These expenses include special scenery to suit the improvised stage, the carriage of properties and dresses and the cab fares for the members of the company, who always arrive in London at a midnight hour, when "groceries" are few and far between. Sir John Galsworthy's recent appearance before the king cost him about $1,000.

EVANSVILLE AND VICINITY

GOLDEN WEDDING WAS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. Anson Baldwin Entertained Friends and Relatives on the Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary.

Evansville, Nov. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Anson Baldwin celebrated their golden wedding anniversary yesterday, Nov. 28th, at their spacious home on the corner of High and Second streets. The occasion brought together about eighty-five relatives and old time friends and the day was spent in a joyous manner. The decorations throughout the house were in gold and white, hearts and chrysanthemums being used. The guests arrived at 10:30 o'clock and at noon an elaborate dinner was served. The dining room was made especially attractive by an ingenious arrangement of gold and white hearts swinging from yellow ribbons, which were carried from the corners of the room to the chandelier and from there were gracefully festooned to the corners of each table. The tables were further adorned with vases of yellow chrysanthemums, and bells in gold and white bearing the dates 1860-1910 were used as place cards. The entire company were seated at one sitting, and when they had all gathered around the festive board as one large family, the Rev. D. Q. Grabbill, implored the divine blessing, using words so beautiful and appropriate that they deeply impressed all who heard them. Mr. Hatch, harpist, and Mr. Knott, violinist, both of Janesville, played a delightful musical program during the dinner hour, and at intervals throughout the afternoon.

In some parts of Hungary it is the custom for the bridegroom to pay a sum to the bride's parents, and in case the parties cannot agree the mayor acts as arbitrator. Mayor Welch, who is a cattle dealer, has had to decide a case of this kind, and after inspecting the bride decided that the bridegroom must pay the parents at the rate of half a dollar for each pound that the bride weighed. This verdict was accepted, and the woman weighing 86 pounds the bridegroom handed over the equivalent of $43, after which the wedding ceremony was performed.

HAPPY RESULTS

Have Made Many Janesville Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of Janesville citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Janesville by Doan's Kidney Pills:

Frank C. Samuels, 989 McKay Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a good kidney medicine, having used them with the best of results. My kidneys did not do their work as they should and caused my back to ache. I also had pain across my loins. The use of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills a few months ago relieved me and since then I have no further trouble from kidney complaint."

Jockey Club of England.

The fact that Lord Lister has been elected a member of the Jockey club of England recalls to the Dundee Advertiser the extraordinary exclusiveness of the institution, which numbers the king as a member. The membership is limited to 70, and it is said the only club that can vie with it in exclusiveness is the Royal Yacht squadron. It was formed to provide a select and exclusive circle of sportsmen, but in the early days of the club heavy gambling, with unseemly brawls and open accusations of cheating, took place within its walls. The present home of the Jockey club at Newmarket has certain rooms reserved for the use of his majesty, who has honored the club with his presence for nearly half a century. In the dining-room on state occasions the hoof of the celebrated Bellerose may be seen mounted in gold.

Street Railway Accidents.

One of the startling facts developed by the public service commission of New York city is that over 200 persons are killed or seriously injured every month by the urban railways under the commission's jurisdiction. The annual toll of deaths in accidents is between 500 and 600.

A Family Medicine Without Alcohol

Ask your doctor if a family medicine, like Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is not vastly better without alcohol than with it. Ask him the difference between a stimulant and a tonic. Ask him about Ayer's non-alcoholic Sarsaparilla as a strong tonic for the weak. Ask him if it makes rich, red blood. Ask him if he has anything better suited to your case. Do as he says.

Print Paper from Rice Straw. A new raw material for the manufacture of print paper has been discovered in rice straw, and it is hoped that this product may partly take the place of wood pulp, which is now growing scarce. Rice straw has been so high that it was not practicable for ordinary purposes. A machine has been invented which has a capacity of five tons of rice straw pulp a day. Demonstrations of this machine are now being made in the rice fields of Louisiana and Texas, and if it proves successful the rice farmers will devote more land to the raising of this grain.

France Had Women Warriors. The equestrian statue of Domestello Phyllis de la Chances de la Tour du Pin which the citizens of Grenoble in France have erected, remembering after 200 years what they owe to the lady, has recalled the fact there have been many warrior women of France besides Joan of Arc. Phyllis equipped a company of her vassals and rode against the duke of Savoy.

Had a Thought Coming. Frau Bio was awarded by the arbitration court $3,750 for the loss of her husband through an accident on board of a ship. Not long afterward on the same ship a stoker met with an accident which cost him a leg, and the same court awarded him $5,000. Indignant Frau Bio went to the court to complain because a man who only lost a leg got so much more than she was allowed for the loss of a husband. The judge, a bland and witty old gentleman, said: "My dear lady, that poor stoker can hardly buy a new leg with $5,000. Now, a good looking woman like you with $3,750 can easily get a new husband, younger and perhaps more loving than your late husband." The widow wiped her eyes and smiled. She had not thought of that.
